SUPERVISORS REFUSE FUND TO INSTITUTE

Annual Appropriation for Farmers' Meeting Eliminated

The June meeting of the board of supervisors was concluded at noon today after a heavy session. At the session Thursday afternoon the board refused to accept the list of judges of election as submitted by the chairman of the democratic county central committee and referred the matter back to the judiciary committee to bring in a report at this session.

The fees and salary committee presented a report in which they instructed Sheriff Ward T. Miller to collect all outstanding fees in his office for a period of statutory limitations and empowered him to bring suit in the name of Lee county when necessary to force collections.

Cut Farmers Institute

A lengthy debate arose following reading of a report from the finance committee in which this body refused an appropriation of $100 to be used for the conducting of meetings in the county by the Lee County Farmers' Institute. The report met with instant opposition and several members of the board expressed their feeling toward the measure. Supervisor Joseph Bauer of the finance committee told the board that one of the reasons for disallowing the amount requested, was based on the fact that the attendance at the institute had been very small and that little interest was shown.

Supervisor Hart of Ashton supported the appropriation and took the stand that the magnitude of agriculture in Lee county warranted the small expenditure. He told the board that refusal of the amount would be discouraging to the farmers and in referring to the small attendance, stated that this was a personal matter with the farmers.

Supervisor William Brucker of China township strongly opposed the appropriation and in his remarks said:

"High Brow Farming"

"It is true that the attendance is very poor at these institutes and there is a reason for it. The farmers have advice of all kinds from the university pamphlets and bulletins to the farm papers. From my observation, the farmer who follows the advice of these institutes is going to go bust. It is a high brow system of meetings held all over the state and ideas advanced are not practical, which is accountable for the poor attendance. By granting this appropriation, which I believe the board has no legal right to do, any convention held in the county could come before this board and ask for a like amount."

Supervisor Banks of Brooklyn township told the board that a request for an increase in salary of one of the most competent of county officers had been refused for the reason that it is necessary to economize and added that the appropriation sought by the Farmers' Institute was of less importance than that of an increase in salary.

Supervisor Hart sought to have the amount reduced to $50 but upon roll call vote, the resolution disallowing the amount was adopted by a 12 to 9 vote.

The board selected election judges

Farmer Plants 215 Acres Without Any Help This Season

Peoria, Ill., June 17.—(AP)—Elmer Williams of Toulon, state and former national champion corn husker, hung up another world's record this spring when he seeded 80 acres of barley and oats and finished planting 135 acres of corn single handed all before June 1. "He put in 215 acres without a day's help," said E. E. Brown, Stark County farm adviser. "Elmer, who is a modest, cheerful, doesn't want his achievement noised about," Brown added. The achievement is all the more remarkable in a season of cold wet weather, officials of the Illinois Agriculture Association say. Williams works from dawn to dark. He always husks his corn barehanded.

AVIATORS' WIVES JOINED HUSBANDS EARLY THIS MORN

And Then Started With Them in Flight to Hamburg Today

Bremen, Germany, June 17.—(AP)—The American trans-Atlantic fliers, Chamberlain and Levine, accompanied by their wives left by air today for Hamburg.

Bremerhaven, Germany, June 17.—(AP)—Giving the slip to about fifty newspapermen and followers the trans-Atlantic fliers, Chamberlain and Levine, had an early morning reunion with their wives, who arrived during the night on the liner Berlin from New York.

"When we bade you all good night at about midnight," Chamberlain told the correspondents later, "we did not even know we could see our wives within the next hour. We understood the harbor regulations forbade boarding the ship until the quarantine inspection was finished but we were informed we would be permitted to go aboard the Berlin."

The official welcoming party with the newspapermen and photographers had drawn alongside the Berlin in a tender and soon on the upper deck of the liner the aviators and their wives were being subjected to a barrage of questions.

A reporter asked Mrs. Levine whether she had forgiven her husband for his unannounced participation in the flight to which she replied: "You bet. I think he is just wonderful."

When Mrs. Chamberlain was asked what she thought of her husband now that he had become a hero, she replied: "It would be foolish to say."

Scouts of Dixon to Do Special Service

The attention of all Boy, Girl and Brownie Scouts of Dixon is again directed to the call for the Special Service meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. building at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. All Scouts of all branches are expected to be at the meeting place in uniform.

Mr. Williams served as secretary of the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Palmyra for many years. He was also one of the trustees elected when the Palmyra Cemetery was incorporated and held that office continuously until his death, being the last member of the original board. He was a member of the M. E. church of Dixon since 1905. He was also a member of Friendship Lodge No. 7, A. F. & A. M., Dixon, Ill.; Nachusa Chapter No. 56, Dixon, Ill.; Dixon Commandery No. 21, Dixon, Ill.

Funeral services will be held at the late home Saturday, June 18, at 2:00 p. m., Dr. E. C. Lumsden and Rev. W. W. Carlson officiating and with burial in Palmyra cemetery.

Thus ends the earthly career of a kind, indulgent husband and father, an excellent citizen and neighbor and beloved by all who knew him.

Joe Chenas, 22, Died on Gallows for Brutal Crime

Harrisburg, Ill., June 17.—(AP)—Joe Chenas, 22, was hanged here for the murder of William Unsell, aged mail carrier, last August 8. The trap was dropped at 9:55 a. m., and Chenas was pronounced dead at 10:16.

Chenas went smiling to his death. He had been in an unusually happy mood last night and this morning. He told jail attaches he had made his peace with God and was eager to pay the penalty for his crime.

Asked if he had any statement to make, Chenas said no.

The black cap and noose were adjusted until November 12 by Governor Small a few hours before the slayer was to be hanged last October 16. An appeal to the supreme court on the ground that the confession had been obtained upon persuasion of Charlie Birger, Southern Illinois gang leader, was pending and the date of execution deferred. The court last April 20 upheld Judge A. E. Somers in sentencing Chenas to be hanged and fixed the execution date for June 17. Chenas pleaded guilty to a murder charge September 6.

Attorneys for Chenas said Birger persuaded the youth to confess so as to turn suspicion away from other gang members.

Ingram and Dixon were sentenced to the penitentiary upon conviction of the robbery charge.

SENATE VOTES TO SUBMIT ISSUE TO VOTERS

Bill Had Already Passed House; Gas Tax Vote Nearing

BULLETIN

Springfield, Ill., June 17

—(AP)—Smashing unexpected strength for the gasoline tax bill under consideration Chicago senators rallied 22 votes today and defeated the bill for a two cent tax on gasoline. The vote was 24 to 22. Twenty-six votes were required for passage.

Springfield, Ill., June 17.—(AP)—Subject to the approval of the people, a statewide system of game preserves, parks and fishing grounds, one of the most extensive in the nation, will be established in Illinois.

The Senate today by a vote of 33 to 4 passed the bill of Representative Curran, asking a bond issue of $20,000,000 for such purpose. The bill had already passed the house and now goes to the governor.

At the November election next year, the proposition will be submitted to the people. The interest and principal would be paid by fishing and hunting licenses, and deficit by a direct tax. Sponsors of the bill are certain that little, if any deficit would arise.

The system of fishing and hunting grounds would be open to the public for boating, camping, hiking, motorizing, picnicking and similar park purposes.

It was pointed out by Senator Ben L. Smith of Pekin, that such a system would be a considerable step in the direction of flood prevention in that the designated lands will revert to their natural state, thus wiping away some of the artificial causes of floods.

Attacks on two of the most important measures remaining on the legislative calendar, the gas tax bill and the omnibus bill, were scheduled for today's session of the senate. Both bills have passed the house.

Gas Tax Likely Winner

The gas tax bill which last yesterday rode down a host of amendment and was advanced to final reading, will probably be called up for passage today. Judging from the manner in which the amendments were tabled yesterday, its passage appears certain. Senator Don Courtney, however, leader of the opposition, declared he was anxious for the roll call, believing he has enough votes to kill the bill.

The gas tax bill places a two cent tax, effective July 31, on every gallon of gasoline sold to motorists. Proceeds from the tax would be split between the state and the counties for hard road construction.

Attack Omnibus Bill

The omnibus bill, appropriating several million dollars for various state departments, is scheduled to have its inner workings critically examined. Departments to be hit by the appropriation slashes, it is said, are the department of health and the department of vocational education.

Senate John Dailey, Peoria, is expected to lead the onslaught with Senator Rodney B. Swift, Highland Park, not far behind.

Colleen Moore is Sued for Million by Company

New York, June 17.—(AP)—Colleen Moore, motion picture star, is being sued by First National Pictures, Inc., for $1,000,000, it was learned today.

The company charges that when she had appeared in seven of the plays she refused to appear in the remaining five called for in a contract with the result that they will lose more than $1,000,000 as she is "of special, unique and extraordinary attainments and ability and has a large following among the public."

INFORMATION FOR VOTERS OF SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 170 IN TOMORROW'S SPECIAL ELECTION

POLO ALL READY FOR CONVENTION OF LEGIONNAIRES

Service Men of District to Have Big Day in Polo Tomorrow

POLO—Legionnaires of the 13th district, department of Illinois, are all ready to "hoop-off" for their first annual convention to be held in Polo tomorrow, commencing at 10 a. m., with an important business meeting—and the convention stage is all set. With a half a dozen figures nationally and internationally known, with a monster parade scheduled at 2 o'clock, and with a "Get Acquainted" banquet and pavement dance at night, the convention promises to eclipse all former efforts in a similar district in Illinois.

Churches, patriotic organizations and Sunday school classes along with the regular eating places are preparing to handle one of the biggest crowds ever assembled in Polo. Two men, Gen. Gen. Milton Foreman, one of the 15 men who formed the American Legion in Paris and Commander of a combat division in France, and Oscar Carlstrom, attorney general of Illinois, will bring additional hundreds of former service men to Polo.

Hosts in the 11th district which held its convention in Elgin Saturday, will send delegations for the polo meeting. Junior vice commanders of all divisions in the state will be here to help Ben Kreider in the 13th.

Close Banquet to Public

Practically every host in the 13th district will not only have chosen delegates in the annual business meeting but a delegation of Legionnaires in addition. Reservations received in advance have made it necessary to close the banquet to non-members of the Legion and Auxiliary. The "chow" committee is preparing to handle an overflow banquet with appropriate speakers.

Preliminary indications point to Whiteside as the banner county for attendance. Practically every post there is "hot" on the convention. However, other counties are showing much interest and final figures may oust Whiteside from its advanced lead.

Posts throughout the 13th district are realizing that here is an opportunity to take in an American Legion convention with an easy "there-and-back" trip in a single day. Auxiliary units, 25 of them in the 13th district, are going quietly about their convention preparations. They will have a separate business meeting at which their hundred delegates will discuss problems peculiar to the organization.

Pavement Dance at Night

The big banquet and pavement dance at night is proving a powerful magnet in attracting reservations. One of the northern Illinois' best known dance orchestras will make the visiting Legionnaires, Auxiliaries and guests feel like a bunch of kids again. All in all, June 18, promises to be a great day in American Legion circles in northern Illinois.

Following the 366 parade and review at 2 o'clock, comes the open meeting to which the public is invited. Those able to get into the town hall will hear General Foreman, Oscar Carlstrom, Ferre Watkins and the other Legion luminaries noted even beyond Illinois and the U. S. A. A loud speaker arrangement will be used for those unable to get inside.

Line of March Set

Line of march for the monster parade at 2 o'clock will be the same as that on last Armistice night with the massed colors of all the Legion Posts and Auxiliaries in the 13th district starting from the standpoint in the north part of town. As the colors pass, the various units with their bands and drum corps, will fall in line from the side streets where they will be stationed.

The parade will be south of Division street to the Lutheran church, west to Butler Avenue, south to Madison street, east on Mason street to the east end where it will counter march on Mason street to Franklin then north to the town hall where the monster public meeting will be held immediately.

To Review Parade

No parking will be permitted on the line of march until after the parade. (Continued on page two)

Final Complete Details Presented Electors of School Dist.

Tomorrow, from 12 o'clock noon until 5:00 p. m., the polls will be open for the purpose of voting upon the proposition of building a new high school.

Another location will be offered to the voters of Dixon for the high school building site tomorrow.

The middle College building and block of 300 feet by 360 feet, now occupied by Schldberg Planing Mill, has been suggested by some as an admirable location for such building.

It is easily accessible from all sides. A survey made several years ago apparently placed the center of population a little west of the Illinois N. U. Co. office on First street. The west part of Dixon is growing constantly and the city is pushing farther west so that within a few years such location should be very centrally located. It is argued.

Tomorrow at the polls will be stationed people who will hand out gummed stickers with the legal description of this site printed upon them. It will be necessary for the voter, if he or she desires this location not only to affix the sticker to the ballot but also mark the square opposite it where such place is provided for the same at the bottom of the ballot.

The estimated cost of the above site has not been definitely arranged for but it is said would not exceed $27,000.

The precincts and polling places are as follows:

No. 1—All that part of District No. 170 which lies north of Rock river, polling place, Guntryman and Johnson's garage, 110 No. Galena ave.

No. 2—All that part of District No. 170 which lies south of Rock river and east of the Illinois Central railroad, polling place, Finkler's store, 210 College avenue.

No. 3—All that part of District No. 170 which lies south of Rock river and west of the Illinois Central railroad, polling place, Finkler's store, 210 College avenue.

Questions to be Voted On

Shall a school house be located in District No. 170?

Shall the Board of Education of School District No. 170 be authorized to purchase a school house site in and for said district?

Shall the Board of Education of School District No. 170 be authorized to build a school in and for said district?

Shall School District No. 170, Lee county, Illinois, borrow $273,000 for the purposes of purchasing and improving a school house site, and of building a school house, and issue bonds in evidence of such indebtedness?

Which of the sites (each described in detail on the ballot) shall be purchased?

Need for the Building

The south side high school was built about twenty years ago to accommodate 210 pupils; more than 400 were crowded into it last year. The north side high school was built about thirty years ago to accommodate about 50 pupils; it housed more than 100 in 1925-27. Both are good buildings, and will be used for grade schools if a new high school building is erected. Furthermore, when these schools were built, class rooms, laboratories and shops for vocational training were unheard of. Now one of the most important functions performed by a high school is that of instruction along business, mechanical and agricultural lines, which fit the pupil for a trade or profession. Additional space must be provided for this necessary and valuable type of instruction, as well as for general high school purposes. High school enrollment is four times as great now as it was twenty years ago.

Cost

The proposed issue is for the amount of $273,000. This loan will be repaid in annual installments of $13,650. The principal and interest will be met without raising taxes above the rate of $2.75 per hundred dollars assessed valuation which the Board of Education is allowed to levy without a referendum vote. The present tax rate of $2.48 is ample for the maintenance of our school system, so the maximum increase will not exceed twenty-seven cents. One high school, with one group of instructors and one set of equipment can be maintained more cheaply than two, so the expense of running the schools may be less, and the total tax rate correspondingly lower. It is easy to determine what the new school will cost each individual

DYSART'S DEATH DUE TO BROKEN NECK THURSDAY

Further Information Concerning End of N. W. Engineer

That Frank Dysart, C. & N. W. engineer and former resident of Franklin Grove, whose death in Chicago Thursday morning was announced in last evening's Telegraph, came to his sudden end by having his neck broken while he was oiling his engine in the railroad's coach yards, was the information received by relatives in Franklin Grove from a nephew of the deceased.

Mr. Dysart had backed his train out to the coach yards after completing his run from Williams Bay to Chicago, and while oiling the engine asked his fireman, James Larson of Chicago, to move the locomotive so he could better reach an oiling place. Just what happened is not definitely known, except that the former Franklin man was thrown down violently, suffering a broken neck. James Wheat, formerly of Dixon, was conductor on the train.

The deceased was a brother of the late Emma Shaw of Ingleswood, Cal., who passed away last September; and is survived by two brothers, James of Chicago and Al W. of Sycamore; and a sister, Mrs. Frank Miller of Chicago.

Hope of Recovering Aviators Dies Hard

Quebec, June 17.—(AP)—Hope of finding Nungesser and Goll, missing French airmen, is dying hard here.

Despite the explanation that the "flares" reported seen in the German and Belgian Townships of the St. John district, were merely the lights of the power house at Chute Aux Galets, reports of unusual lights still are being received.

No explanation had been found today accounting for the statement of Georges Rousseau, trapper, that he heard an airplane on the night of May 9 on the St. Marguerite river near the Saguenay.

Former Dixon Man is Dead in Seattle, Wash.

Menger information of the death of a former Dixonite is given in the following notice received by The Telegraph this morning:

BAD WEATHER AND OFFICERS DAMPEN ARDOR

Flier Encounters Poor Flying Conditions on Flight Today

Dayton, Ohio, June 17.—(AP)—The "Lone Eagle," winging his way homeward over Dayton today was joined by a flock of 30 of the army's swiftest airplanes as he flew over aviation's brooding place.

The "Eagle," Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, swooped away from Wilbur Wright Field surrounded by his escort at 1:32 p. m., eastern standard time.

Lambert-St. Louis Field, Mo., June 17.—(AP)—A combination of miserable weather and elaborate police precautions promised to produce for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's homecoming today for the smallest welcoming crowd since he settled his Spirit of St. Louis upon La Bourget Field, Paris. Three hours before he was due, only 1,000 persons were at the field and highways leading to it virtually were deserted.

St. Louis itself was clouded of blue coats and hundreds of them were scattered along the route to the flying field to discourage the hundreds bent upon welcoming the flier. Every St. Louis motorcycle policeman and many borrowed ones patrolled the roads.

Elaborate Protection.

At the flying field regular infantrymen from Jefferson Barracks, Missouri militiamen, St. Louis policemen and two strong wire fences combined to keep the landing field clear of the comparative handful of would-be spectators.

The weather conditions, unfavorable for the assembling of outdoor crowds and for the hanging of decorations were likewise unfavorable for flying. Lieut. Col. J. A. Paegelow, commanding of Scott Field, said reports showed flying conditions to be bad and visibility poor over the route being taken by Lindbergh.

Mitchell Field, N. Y., June 17.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off at 8:17 a. m., daylight saving time, for St. Louis in his monoplane, the "Spirit of St. Louis" after four days of unprecedented receptions in New York.

There was a large crowd of admirers at the field to see him off. The take-off was perfect and in a few moments, the plane was in the air.

Col. Lindbergh expected to reach St. Louis at 4:30 p. m. (St. Louis time). When he flew here more than a month ago, he uncovered the 900 miles from St. Louis in seven hours and 15 minutes, establishing a new record for the route.

Extremely Tired.

The Colonel submitted to his last interview with newspapermen just before he left Mitchell Field. He said he planned to proceed directly west for St. Louis. He expects to pick up a new army escort near Dayton.

The young flier appeared extremely tired as he answered the questions of reporters. He expressed his thanks for the reception in New York.

Lindbergh appeared under the impression that unannounced shifts in his plans during his stay in the city had displeased reporters who had "covered" him in his four day welcome in New York.

With characteristic diplomacy he explained the difficulties of planning his program in advance.

WHEN WOMAN SMILES—
Here's a poem from my scrap-book of verse clippings. I should like to have given credit to the paper in which it appeared and to the author who wrote it, but I don't know either. Judging from the mellowing of the paper, it must have been clipped quite a number of years ago. But it's good enough to revive:

When woman smiles her sweetest—ah,
Perhaps her heart is breaking.
When woman's look is tenderest,
She may be sadly making
A last brave fight to keep her tears—
The bitter tears—from flowing—
A woman's happy glances may
Be but an outward showing.

When woman smiles, 'tis hard to tell—
She may, alas, be grieving!
Her careless air may be put on,
Her soulful look deceiving!
When woman smiles, take care, beware!
She may perchance be scheming
To jolly you. Ne'er judge a woman
By her outward seeming.

Meeting St. James Missionary Society

A delightful meeting of the St. James Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. L. E. Burket Thursday afternoon with sixteen present.

The meeting opened with all singing, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and the Scripture lesson taken from the Psalms, was read by Mrs. Shippert. Miss Grace Uhl led in prayer.

The monthly lesson was led by Mrs. Shippert, all taking an active part. Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved. Roll call followed to which all responded with verses from the Bible. Mrs. Shippert then favored with a reading.

The meeting closed with all repeating the Lord's Prayer, after which delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake were served, and a social hour enjoyed.

Annual Winslow Community Picnic

The fifteenth annual picnic held in honor of Grandpa Winslow's 55th birthday took place at the home of his son, G. A. Winslow, June 5. All the old neighbors and friends gathered at the picnic grounds for this happy occasion. Everyone brought well filled baskets and enjoyed themselves to the utmost. Winces took a big part on the menu. The folks played games of which horse shoe was the main feature. Many snap shots were taken. Many of the old friends have passed on since the beginning of the picnics but Grandpa is as hale and hearty as at the beginning.

He had nine grandchildren and six great grandchildren present.

There were about seventy present at the event.

Mr. Winslow was a one time resident of Dixon and will be remembered there by many old friends and relatives.

Six Lee County Youth Graduate from Illinois U.

Urbana-Champaign, Ill., June 17—On Wednesday morning when the 56th annual commencement of the University of Illinois was held, it marked the final award of more than 1900 degrees conferred by that institution this spring. More than 200 of that number received their degrees from the professional branches in Chicago.

The graduates came from every section of the state and from every walk of life. The fathers of some were extremely wealthy men but too, there were those whose fathers are unskilled laborers. Some of the boys, and girls, have worked for every penny that they have had at their disposal during the four year period; others received from home more than they could use. Some of the graduates have been very brilliant students and have made unusual scholarship records; others barely "got by," while the vast majority proved a true cross section of life and struck a good average which should result in their ability to enjoy life and contribute to their respective communities in general citizenship activities.

The Commencement exercises Wednesday morning ended the festivities of the period. Starting with the Senior Ball which was given both Thursday and Friday nights of last week, there followed on Sunday (June 12) the Baccalaureate exercises at which the Rev. Theodore Gerald Soares, head of the department of Practical Theology at the University of Chicago, was the speaker. Class Day Exercises were held Monday morning while Tuesday was given over to Alumni reunions and celebrations and to receptions to seniors and alumni by the faculties of the various colleges which go to make up the University. At the Commencement exercises, President David Kinley was the speaker.

The following were included in the list of graduates from this vicinity:

Lee County
Amboy—Gipson, Charles Franklin, B. S.
Dixon—Fluck, Charles Benjamin, B. S.; Newcomer, Paul Xania, A. B.; Smith, Esther Palmer, A. B.

Ogle County
Byron—Thomson, Stewart Craig, A. B.

Benefit Bridge Party Thursday

A bridge party for the benefit of the Dixon Country club was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. E. Shaw and Mrs. S. C. Stanfield in Bluff Park. The benefit was well attended, guests being present for nine tables, a nice sum being realized for the club. The social committee, of which Mrs. M. R. Forsyth, is chairman, sponsored the happy affair. Lovely early summer flowers graced the rooms in the Stanfield-Shaw apartments.

Mrs. Harry Lager made top score at bridge, receiving the first favor and Mrs. Mark Keller received the consolation favor; the prizes for the party being donated by Mrs. Raymond McGowan and Mrs. Will Ware. Punch and wafers were served.

Radio Installed for President Coolidge

Although President Coolidge will be miles from a railroad or town all summer in the Black Hills of South Dakota, he will be able to spend his evenings listening to concerts being given in the metropolitan centers of the country, because of the activities of the radio industry. A receiving set designed by Dr. P. A. Kolster, formerly head of the U. S. Bureau of Standards radio laboratory and now chief research engineer of Federal Brackets, Inc., has been installed in the State Game Lodge for the President's personal use.

Since the appointment of the Federal Radio Commission, Mr. Coolidge has taken a keen interest in radio, listening in often at the White House with a set built by the Bureau of Standards. In order to provide him and Mrs. Coolidge with entertainment after a day of fishing or hiking in the picturesque Black Hills, arrangements were made to place the Kolster receiver in the Summer White House as soon as it was announced that he would spend his vacation there.

The reporters who will accompany the Presidential party will not lack music during their idle moments either, as a receiving set is being installed in their headquarters nearby.

Convention 13th Dist. American Legion Auxiliary in Polo

Polo—Several hundred ladies are expected to attend the 13th district American Legion Auxiliary convention here, Saturday, according to Mrs. Carl Donaldson, president of the local Auxiliary unit. The convention will open promptly at nine o'clock that morning in the Masonic hall. Added interest attaches to the gathering in view of the fact that the Polo unit won the service cup last year.

Members will be required to present 1927 membership cards at the door as the meeting is not open to the public. Those of the local unit who do not have cards are requested to see the secretary and get them so that they can attend the meeting.

Banquet reservations are coming in on every mail and the Auxiliary committee of this city is urging all local members to get tickets now. The banquet is for members of the Legion and Auxiliary and will be served at the Opera House, Saturday evening at six-thirty. Tickets are on sale at Bracken's store.

The following have been picked as delegates to represent the Polo Auxiliary: (1) Mrs. Elizabeth Rowland, (2) Mrs. Mary G. Zick, (3) Mrs. Helen Bentley, (4) Mrs. Neva Fahrney, (5) Mrs. Ruth Devaney. Alternates were chosen as follows: (1) Mrs. Esther White, (2) Mrs. Ollie Minnier, (3) Mrs. Hattie Reinert, (4) Mrs. Frances Mount, (5) Mrs. Clara Treat.

Those in charge of arrangements here are working hard on preparations for the big parade in which the massed colors of the Legions and Auxiliaries will appear.

All roads in the 13th District will lead to Polo tomorrow and the Auxiliary committee is endeavoring to have fully as many members present as there are Legionnaires.

Mrs. Maurice Laursen and Mrs. Lyle Peterson pleasantly entertained with a chicken dinner Wednesday the following: Mrs. Daniel Swift and daughter, Mary Jane, Mrs. Budd Simons and children, Mrs. Ed Maynard and children, Mrs. Wm. Hawk, daughter Dorothy, Mrs. Ted Mangos, all of Sterling. The afternoon was spent in playing 500. The guests departed at a late hour voting Mesdames Laursen and Peterson royal entertainers.

D. A. R. of Dixon Celebrated Flag Day

The Daughters of the American Revolution celebrated Flag Day with a picnic dinner at the cottage of Mrs. W. H. Winn at Assembly Park, with Mrs. Clara Rowe as assisting hostess.

The Chapter was well represented by its members with three or four guests, to enjoy the beautiful dinner and the beautiful view of Rock River from the cottage.

After dinner the Chapter was called to order by the Regent, Mrs. W. A. Rhodes. After a short business session Mrs. Rhodes turned the meeting over to the new Regent, Mrs. Collins Dysart. After a few remarks by Mrs. Dysart the following program was given:

An interesting and instructive article on the "Etiquette of the Flag," was read by Mrs. A. H. Nichols.

Miss Laing and Mrs. S. S. Dodge read reports of the Continental Congress held at Washington, D. C., in April.

As Flag Day is observed as the birthday of the Chapter and this being the twenty-ninth birthday, a collection was taken, each member giving twenty-nine cents, netting the Chapter a nice little sum in honor of the celebration.

As this was the last meeting of the year, the Chapter then adjourned to meet the first Saturday in October.

Monthly Meeting of Sunshine Class

The monthly meeting of the Sunshine Class of St. Paul's Lutheran church was held at the church Thursday evening with a good attendance and a pleasant session. A short business session was held after the devotions, which were conducted by Mrs. Clara Schick, an invitation being received from Mrs. Mary Perkins, in which she asked the class to enjoy an afternoon picnic at her home near Waukegan July 21. Several committees were appointed during the business session.

The program of the evening consisted of a piano solo by Miss Shirley Wilkey, a reading by Miss Mabel Kay and a piano solo by Mrs. Ethel Kay Wood. During the social hour which followed the program dainty refreshments were served by the committee: Mesdames Jane Wilkey, Ella Heffley, Lizzie Lindsey, Addie Hargraves, Mary Harkins, Bertha Morgan and Edna Starks.

Gebhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Forman, Mr. and Mrs. John Wadsworth and son, Leslie.

After the dinner the party attended the evening service at the church and again returned to spend a while in visiting and cordial exchange of interesting events. The party wished Mrs. Carlson a safe and happy journey and a safe return. The pleasant hours were soon gone, the unanimous decision was a better acquaintance and an enjoyable evening. Mrs. Carlson left Thursday noon for her trip to the west and north to visit friends and relatives for the next month.

LADIES' G. A. R. CIRCLE TO MEET MONDAY

The Ladies' Circle of the G. A. R. will meet Monday evening in G. A. R. hall. The delegates to the state convention held recently at Decatur will give their reports.

Gave Pleasing Musical Friday Afternoon

Miss Laura Fischer gave a very pleasing musical for the mothers of her pupils in pianoforte Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl Suchger.

The program opened with "Moment Musical," by Schubert; "Polishinele," by Rachmaninoff, and "To a Water Lily" by McDowell, played by Miss Fischer in a manner which gives ample evidence that she is a gifted and well trained musician.

Miss Fischer was assisted by Miss Jane Harris, contralto soloist from Rockford, who sang, "The Time for Making Songs—Has Come," by James Rogers; "Three Wishes," by Horral; "My Lover Is a Fisherman," by Strickland; also by Franklin Lundstrum, violinist, who played "The Low Is Sparkling," by Rubinstein; and "Songs My Mother Sang," by Dvorak. These two artists also gave great pleasure in their selections for the afternoon. Miss Harris is a sweet singer and Mr. Lundstrum, a violinist playing with rare charm.

The program closed with an ensemble group—"The Waters of Minnetonka," by Lawrence; "At Dawn," by Cadman.

Refreshments were served afterwards and a delightful time was experienced by everyone present. Miss Fischer has taken over Miss Ackert's (now Mrs. Ives) class in Dixon.

He will continue his studies in mining engineering and work in geology for the next year. He will probably go to Denver this summer to continue studies in mining engineering in the School of Mines near Golden.

SCHOOLS FOR GROWNUPS.

Cleveland's plan for a public school building to be devoted largely to adult education starts a movement that should find favor and imitation in any number of communities. All over this broad land are countless people who have been forced to drop their schooling early in life and go to work. Arrived at middle age, they realize that they have missed something. Entering high school with youngsters is not to their liking, and their requirements, also, could not be met in the average high school course. Here it is the adult school will fill the gap. It will not compete with colleges or universities or even the junior colleges. Many of the people who will find that the adult school fills their needs will be people far from ignorant. Having worked at any trade for a number of years is in itself an education of a sort. It is a school of practical experience, and upon this experience the adult school can no doubt add the theory necessary to a complete liberal education. The whole program of such schools cannot be made until the experiment is tried. As the work goes on it will develop. It is possible that schools will be open at all hours of the day and night. Cleveland's pioneering, at any rate, should be watched with no small amount of interest by the country at large.

GET THE VOTERS TO THE POLLS.

The most important duty you can perform for Dixon tomorrow, next to casting your ballot in favor of a new high school, is to get your friends and neighbors to do the same. Past experience has shown that there is a large vote which heretofore has been opposed to a new school. The opposition will turn out in full strength and unless every voter who favors the school program gets to the polls the proposition will probably be beaten and Dixon will continue to suffer from its lack of adequate school facilities. We believe that if every voter could be gotten to the polls tomorrow the total would show a nice majority for school progress. The danger is that many of the friends of the new school may remain at home. If they do, the blame is theirs.

VIVE, LINDBERGH.

There was an item in the papers the other day about a man named John Pershing being on his way home from Europe. Doubtless the ship news reporters will find out who he is. . . . That's not to mention the terrible setback Mr. Lindbergh gave the Chaplin divorce trial, either. . . . The few American cities that haven't Chambers of Commerce to welcome Lindbergh certainly are in a hard way.

CAUTION PAYS.

Can you stop your car quickly if you have to? If not, you'd better get them fixed. It won't cost you much and it may save your life sometime.

THE ANIMATES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

Though Scouty fought with all his might, the octopus just held him tight and soon began to squeeze him till the last stood very still. Poor Scouty's thoughts ran back to shore. He wished that he was there once more. Said he, "Of under water life, I sure have had my fill." The octopus seemed satisfied that he had Scouty tightly tied within his long and twisting arms, so settled in the sand. Wee Scouty hardly drew a breath, for, frankly, he was scared to death. He only wished he had a knife, or something in his hand. Just then some bubbles rose nearby, and Scouty heaved a happy sigh. He saw the form of old King Roar not many feet away. "At last I'm saved," he promptly thought. "The king will surely see I'm caught." It was enough to make him feel like shouting loud, hurrah! Then, slow, but sure, the king came near. Said he, "Well, goodness, see who's here. It seems the funny octopus is very fond of you. Just stay real still till I return and very shortly you will learn that fighting with an octopus to me is nothing new." Away went the king, out of sight, and left poor Scouty to his plight. But soon he came right back again and very loudly roared, "Come on, you octopus, get set. We're going to fight and you can bet that you will be surprised when I begin to swing my sword." The fight was very short and sweet. The king, of course, was quite discreet. He swung his trusty sword around as safely as could be. He never touched wee Scouty, but the octopus soon was badly cut, and down it hid upon the sand and Scouty was free. (Scouty rides a seal in the next story.) (Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

CIVIC ACHIEVEMENTS

BY DON E. MOWRY
Secretary, The American Community Advertising Association
The carrying out of one civic benefit invariably results in the hatching of many more projects, and the ultimate achievement is an expansive program of public improvements. The difficulty in most cities usually, is getting the start. The experience of Eugene, Ore., proves how a chain of civic strength can grow, link by link. The first problem was to get some of the timber around Eugene "moving." Business men subscribed stock for the building of a large wood-working plant, to manufacture such things as ladders, wheel-barrows, cedar chests and many small articles. The amount was $100,000. The plant grew and is now one of the leading wood-working concerns in the community. The next project that they put over was the securing of nearly 300 acres of land which was given to the Southern Pacific railroad lines in order to get the railroad to establish terminals. shops and tie treating plants at Eugene. Then, last summer, the Chamber of Commerce put on a large "Trail to Rail" celebration, climaxing the completion of the Shasta-Cascade line which was practically a main line of the Southern Pacific from Eugene to Black Butte, Calif., passing over the Cascades into Eastern Oregon and south. One activity made possible another. They knew what they needed, raised the money, did it and then the fall started rolling.

SAINT and SINNER

At 12 o'clock that dreadful night Faith telephoned for young Dr. Atkins, who had attended her mother in the last year of her illness. Cherry had been weeping continuously for two hours, and nothing that Faith could say or do could stop those terrible, racking sobs. "I'm afraid she's going to make herself so ill that she will lose her baby," Faith told Bob when he joined her in the kitchen where Faith was preparing a hot water bottle and a dose of spirits of ammonia. "And I think that's exactly what she wants to do," Bob said angrily, his mouth grim and hard. "Don't say that!" Faith commanded him almost sternly. "She's really ill—you ought to be sorry for her. Oh, darling, don't let's quarrel! Tonight has been so ghastly hard for both of us—" "It certainly has," Bob agreed grimly. Then his face softened, and he took her in his arms, murmured over her comfortingly. As she forced Cherry to rest her little feet on the hot water bottle and chafed the clenched, cold little hands, Faith was thinking drearily that all her fears of this first day with the family had not dared picture anything so terrible as had actually happened. Cherry was jealous—in a way—of her sister and her sister's husband. Could it be possible that Cherry still loved Bob Hildway, to whom she had once been engaged and whose love she had forfeited in philandering with other men? Oh, dear, Lord, not that! Faith prayed, her heart like lead in her breast. When the doctor arrived at last he did not mince matters with his patient. Faith had already had a talk with Bob Hildway before he entered Cherry's room, and his voice, when he spoke to her, was sharp, staccato. "What's all this nonsense, Mrs. Wiley? I'm ashamed of you. I thought you had more consideration for your sister than this." "I didn't ask her to do anything for me," Cherry sobbed. "I told her not to call you."

"All you had to do to make sure she wouldn't was to stop crying and behave yourself," Dr. Atkins scolded her. "Now, I'm going to give you a sedative and make Faith leave you alone. Stop that crying this minute, or I'll spank you!" When Faith had brought him the water and spoon she shoed her brusquely out of the room, closing the door firmly upon himself and his patient. Faith walked on slow, leaden feet into the living room, where she found Bob seated in the big wing chair, Joy cradled in his arms, fast asleep. His face, leaning against Joy's tow head, was gentle again, but the eyes he raised to greet her were so sad that she wanted to cry. "I'll put Joy to bed with Dad," Faith whispered. She could hardly bear to look at him, so terrible it was to see that resigned, sad, almost hopeless look in his eyes—eyes that had gloved and sparkled with happiness and love no more than seven hours ago. After Joy had been laid, sleeping, beside her father who was also sleeping, Faith went back to sit with Bob until Dr. Atkins should have finished his lecture to Cherry. They scarcely spoke, and his hand, loosely clasping hers, seemed like other flesh than that which had made every cell in her body sing with joy. "Well, that's that!" Dr. Atkins said briskly, as he stepped into the living room. "She'll sleep now. You two can go to bed. I'd rather you did not go in there again, Faith. Now I want you to promise me one thing, young woman. Don't pumper Cherry. She's strong and well, except for nerves, and it won't do them any good for you to coddle her and give in to her every whim. Make her work and exercise and see people—if that won't be too painful, considering everything. Promise me?"

YOUNG PEOPLE OF DAY DEFENDED BY LUTHERAN SYNOD

Head of Augustana Declares Them More Serious Minded

Omaha, Neb., June 17—(AP)—Declaring that prohibition has proved itself to be of inestimable value to the American nation and urging the church to continue its support of the Anti-Saloon League, Dr. C. A. Brandelle of Rock Island, Illinois, president of the Lutheran Augustana Synod, gave the 18th amendment his unqualified endorsement in his annual report to the 68th annual convention of the synod today.

"Conditions are infinitely better," the synod head declared, "than they were under the saloon regime." Characterizing the Anti-Saloon League as "the strongest and mightiest force on the side of morals and law enforcement in America," Dr.

Brandelle urged the united and earnest support of all who oppose the return of the saloon.

Battle Not Won

"Too many sit back and fancy the battle is already won," he said. "It will not be won for many years in some sections of our land and it can be won only by the wholehearted support of the Christian element of the nation."

That the prohibition law can be enforced was demonstrated Dr. Brandelle said in his 36 states before the federal amendment was adopted. Enforcement in large cities can be effected, he declared, if honest men are put into office.

Dr. Brandelle defended the young people of the present generation, declaring they are more serious minded in many ways than their parents were.

The Brotherhood movement among Lutheran men is developing rapidly, the president's report showed. Total assets of the synod's Pension and Aid fund were reported as $1,060,000.

BYRD AWAITING GOOD WEATHER FOR "HOP OFF"

May be Day or Two Before Big Plane Can Leave on Trip

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., June 17—(AP)—The Fokker monoplane "America" was taken from its hangar this morning for a final inspection preparatory to its flight for France, but it seemed unlikely that a take-off would be possible today.

The most recent reports of trans-Atlantic weather were not encouraging and new reports were not expected before late afternoon.

The only member of the crew present at this morning's inspection was Lieutenant George Noville, radio engineer, who will accompany Commander Richard E. Byrd and Herbert Acosta on the ocean hop.

"It may be two or three days before we will be ready to start," Byrd said in announcing that he had kept a constant check on weather reports. Meanwhile everything was in readiness for the flight, with the America's three motors thoroughly tuned and the ship ready to receive food and gasoline supplies. This can be done on short notice, it was said.

Commander Byrd said he was pleasantly surprised to find public opinion still was in favor of his flight as being of value to aviation.

Byrd said he had received many requests for a place in the America, most of the applications coming from young women.

Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is chapter 63 of the series of articles written by an ex-doughboy who is revisiting France as a correspondent for The Telegraph.

CHAPTER LXIII

"Sur la route a Montpellier. Il y avait un cantonnier. Qui cassait des tas d'cailloux—"

Which, in a more or less liberal doughboy French translation, means that on the road to Montpellier there is a cantonnier who makes big rocks into little ones. This information is essential in leading up to the introduction of Ernest Chellon.

Ernest is a cantonnier—a road worker—along the route from Toul to Pont-a-Mousson. His particular beat is the stretch of highway that runs along in front of the old Toul aerodrome where Princeton's famous Hoberg Baker crashed on the day the armistice was signed—and past the crumbling buildings of the ancient French caserne that was used by the Americans as an evacuation hospital.

Gets Early Start.

Ernest is 77 years old, and it must be said of him, in all fairness, that he is the best little cantonnier in his department. He drives off with his long-handled ax at 6 o'clock every morning and he continues to hook and slice along until 6 o'clock at night, with an hour off at noon for his bread and a bottle of wine. Then he puts his sticks away and trudges on into Toul.

Ernest was asked recently regarding his success as a cantonnier.

"Well," he replied, "I was not such a wiz before the war. In fact, during the first 46 years of my work, I bobbed most of my chances. I couldn't make a hole in par and I was always getting myself stymied by carts and automobiles."

Helped His Swing.

"However, along in 1918, an American soldier who was billeted in my house gave me a leather vest. I tried it out. Then I discovered what had been ailing me. For the first time in my career I was able to swing freely. The sleeveless vest did the trick. I found that I could follow through perfectly and that I could get my shoulders into my drives. Coincident with this revelation I adopted a new stance."

"After that nothing could stop me. Now I hold the national open championship as well as the premier honor of Mouriha at Moelle. And, among all the cantonniers of France, including that baby sur la route a Montpellier, I'm the ace."

So, if that generous American soldier comes over with the legion in September and looks up Ernest Chellon, he'll see how a leather vest can improve one's game.

And Other Topics of Public and Current Interest

The General Public Is Cordially Invited To Attend This Meeting at the Assembly Park, Wednesday, June 22

DIXON, ILL.

Time 8:00 P. M.

The motive, which prompted the Illinois Civic League to ask Senator Heflin to come to Illinois, was a sincere desire to place before the people of Illinois the absolute truth with reference to the fight which Senator Heflin has made against our Nation's intervention with armed forces in the Nation of Mexico. The Press of the Nation has not carried the truth; it has been the privilege of the Illinois Civic League to become acquainted with true facts and knowing them as we do, we feel that the public should be given an opportunity to hear and see Senator Heflin of Alabama, of whom it can be truly said—"He Kept Us Out of War."

We invite you and your friends to our meetings; you will find that Senator Heflin is not only one of the best orators in America but will also know him as one of the most learned men of the Congress of the United States in which he has served more than twenty-two years.

Built to thrill and of Cadillac fibre

The La Salle's flashing speed—its powerful 90-degree, V-type, eight-cylinder engine—attracts the men who think in terms of miles per minute. Meanwhile its graceful beauty, its distinguished lines, its rare fineness of appointment, have opened for it the most exclusive gates of motor-dom. And the La Salle price is a challenge in automobile values.

FOR A SMALL DOWN PAYMENT—with the appraisal value of your used car acceptable as cash—you may possess a La Salle on the liberal term-payment plan of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation—the famous G. M. A. C. plan.

Why we sell the DUNLOP TIRE

FOR 39 YEARS Dunlop has been building the world's supreme tire. Dunlops wear longer because Dunlop knows how to build better at each vital point.

Take the hidden carcass beneath the tread. Dunlop owns its own cotton mills for no other purpose than to spin the best long-fibre cotton into the famous cable-twist cord that goes into this carcass.

The extra strength in these cords means an added factor of safety against constant load and pounding of roads—longer life and greater mileage.

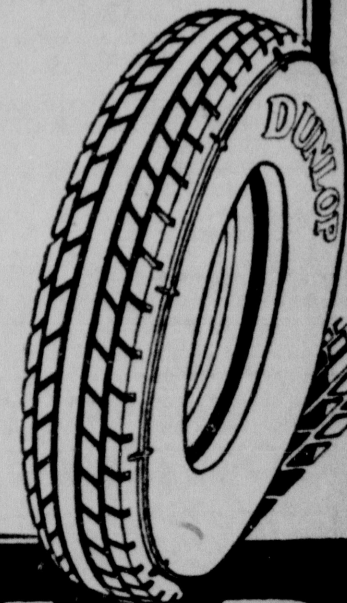

The extra "stretch" enables the carcass to give under severe blows, and to come back into its original position without internal injury.

The Dunlop tread—the toughest rubber development known—wears slowly and smoothly, making sure that you get out of your Dunlops, all the extra mileage that added care and longer experience have built into them. We recommend that you put Dunlops on your car.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Shelia Kildare and her father migrate to America, following Emmett Murtough, to whom she is betrothed. Neither Kildare nor Murtough will hold steady jobs and Shelia goes to work as a waitress. She makes friends with the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer. Murtough reneges his engagement to Shelia, although he has received plans of his bootlegging gang to remove $150,000 worth of contraband to a cabaret girl in the employ of a rival band.

CHAPTER X—Continued

She divined the mysterious "Gus" was undoubtedly connected with a liquor ring, but five thousand dollars was five thousand dollars! And the thought crept into her mind. "Why share it with Murtough at all?" Life as she had learned it was just one "double cross" after another. Why not leave him out of it entirely? Why make him a party to the deal at all? Of course, if Gus insisted, she would do so and then scheme to get the money in her own possession. He was not a bad fellow and she liked him because he never "got fresh." She could take care of herself with men like Murtough. It was those slick, smart fellows that got girls into trouble; not men like Murtough, who seemed to be afraid of his shrewd little companion. He was a clumsy, ignorant fellow, easy to fend away and easy to keep at his distance.

From the moment the doors were ready for admission at the Castle, Clarice nervously watched for the entrance of Gus. As the hours passed she feared that he would not come and she began to worry lest she had been "kidded" by the three men in evening dress. She was seated at a table with a party when the manager summoned her. Offering her excuses she left the ballroom and went downstairs.

"They're going to unload a shipful of stuff at that station."

"There's a big John in there waiting for you," the manager said, pointing to the lounge room. Clarice thanked him and entered in a corner at a table for two sat "Gus."

"You're on the job after all, aren't you?" she asked as he waived her to the chair opposite him. "I thought maybe your interest in truck drivers had passed."

"No; still looking for a good driver, honest, reliable and willing to learn," he remarked with a smile. "That description fit your candidate?"

"To a T."

The waiter approached and took the order.

"Now, what did you learn; give me the whole story," he asked.

"First, who are you?" demanded Clarice.

"Do you have to know?"

"Why should I do business with a blind? You want something I've got, and it's something worth while, take it from me."

"All right, I'll lay at least four cards of my straight on the table. Fair enough? My name is Gus Schermer, you can get me any afternoon at three sharp at this telephone number. I'm always at the wire."

"What's your business?"

"Everything. But right now I'm particularly interested in this," he lifted his glass to his lips.

"What if I called that number now and asked for you?"

Schermer looked at her speculatively for a moment.

"Want proof?"

"Mister, I born just around the block from Ninth Avenue. Get me?"

"Go ahead. Here is the answer you'll get, 'Call Mr. Schermer at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon.' Will that satisfy you?"

Clarice nodded and taking the nickel he proffered went to the telephone booth in the reception hall. "I want to speak to Mr. Schermer," she announced when the connection had been made. "Call Mr. Schermer at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon," came the reply. Clarice started to speak, but the click of the receiver being hung up silenced her. She hurried back to the table in the lounge.

"That's okay for me," she said. "Now just what do you want to know?"

"What have you got to tell?"

"You better ask me. When you're found out enough for the price you named, you'll stop, and I won't feel like a bargain sale."

"Smart girl. All right. Who's your truck driver friend?"

"Emmett Murtough, only been in this country a little while."

"Who's his boss?"

"Mannie Clobber."

"How did he get in with Clobber? Clobber don't pick up with strangers."

"Emmett has been a member of the West End Club almost ever since he arrived from Ireland. He met Clobber there."

"Does Murtough know Clobber's business?"

"I'll say so! And how!"

"For instance?"

"Well, first he was a guard, then he learned to drive a truck. He was driving one night when a gang of hi-jackers held them up and Emmett got a bullet in his shoulder. Soon as he learns some more about the game he'll drive a pilot car."

"Does he know many of Clobber's hide-outs?"

"I don't know; he never mentioned but one to me, that's the one on Long Island."

"He knows where that is?"

"Sure, it was on one of those trips that he got his."

Schermer was silent for a few minutes and Clarice waited patiently for more questions. Wise in her ways, she did not want to offer more information, if that which she had given was sufficient.

"Now what about him? How loyal is he?"

"I think he's on the level, but money talks, and right now little Clarice can handle him. But do you need him at all? Suppose I can tell you something that would be worth while, couldn't you leave him out?"

"That depends on how much you know. But what do you want to double cross your sweetie for? Thought this money was to be a wedding gift."

"I am not saying it isn't, but, maybe, I don't want him to get mixed up in this at all."

Schermer hesitated. Already his ring knew of the ship that lay outside the twelve mile limit waiting to be unloaded, but they did not know the location of the secret landing station. They needed someone who knew every foot of it to help arrange the plans for a concentrated attack and the theft of the entire cargo. If this girl knew the place, then accounts might be able to lay out the campaign, but a deserter from the Clobber camp would be of invaluable aid.

"Do you know where Clobber's place is in Long Island?"

"Not exactly," confessed Clarice, and she mentally kicked herself for not having wormed that from Murtough.

"What else do you know?"

"I know this," Clarice leaned across the table and whispered. "They're going to unload a shipful of stuff at that station on Friday and Saturday nights."

"This week?"

"This week."

"Why, I thought—" Schermer let surprise creep into his voice.

"Maybe that isn't worth something," boasted the girl. Schermer looked at his watch. It was near to four o'clock.

"Can you get this bird on the phone?"

"No, he lives in a rooming house down on Fifty-second Street. There is no phone."

"Will he come if you send for him?"

"Here?"

"No, at an address I'll give you."

"Yes."

"All right. Write him a note now. Tell him to go to Room 717, Marmaduke Hotel, as quick as he can. Tell him it's something big for him."

The waiter brought writing paper and Clarice wrote as Schermer dictated.

Dear Emmett:

Go at once to Room 717, Marmaduke Hotel in Twenty-seventh Street and ask for Mr. Schermer. It means a lot for you. Do what he tells you.

CLARICE

"Here, I'll take that and have my driver go up and give it to him on the way down."

Schermer paid the check and hurried out. Twenty minutes later Murtough was awakened by the chauffeur.

"A guy tells me to give you this and for you to hurry," the driver said.

"But, who gave it to you?"

"How do I know? It's the guy I'm driving."
